RAFFLE RUN

Sunday, August 24 ♦ Leaves from Farmington Fairgrounds at 9 a.m.

Great motorcycle rides must meet certain prerequisites. They need winding roads, lots of scenic views, good places to eat, and a dearth of traffic lights. The Raffle Run will take us on Downeast Magazine's #1 Inland Motorcycle Ride in Maine! This ride meets all the requirements taking us through western Maine's mountains and the stunning Rangeley Lakes region. The loop begins in Farmington as we head west-bound on Route 2 and continues north on Route 17 in Rumford toward Rangeley where two-wheeled travelers can admire the view from Height of the Land, and there's barely a red light in sight for the entire trip! After a lunch break in Rangeley where you'll find great food and a cool drink to wash away the road dust, we'll travel south on Route 4 - taking us back to Farmington. (A great alternate route is to take a left onto Route 16 in Rangeley and watch for moose as you head toward Stratton. You'll make a right and head south on Route 27 where you can explore great views from Sugarloaf or make a stop in Kingfield before traveling farther south to Farmington).

Memorial to honor Maine's fallen

BY KEITH EDWARDS, Staff Writer / Kennebec Journal / Morning Sentinel, 04/27/2008

AUGUSTA -- The stark power in a new planned memorial to soldiers is in what's missing as much as what's there.

An empty pair of boots with no marching feet to keep dry. A gun without a shoulder to rest upon. A helmet propped on the stock of the gun because there is no soldier to wear it.

It is the Fallen Soldier Battlefield Cross Memorial, and a local group of supporters who want to honor the sacrifices of Maine soldiers who gave their lives for their country wants to bring two of the memorials to Augusta -- to Camp Keys and the Statehouse.

One such memorial, if enough funds can be raised, will be installed by the main public entrance at Camp Keyes, and will include drawings and the dog tags of each of the eight Maine National Guard soldiers lost in what is being called the Global War on Terrorism. Another memorial, likely to be placed in the Hall of Flags at the Statehouse, would serve as a tribute to Maine soldiers from all branches of the military killed in the war. "We want to honor those who let us have all our freedoms," said Louise Dorr, president of the Augusta Emblem Club, which is working to raise more than $10,000 to purchase and install the two memorials. Dorr works at the exchange store at Camp Keyes, and said her son, father, and grandfather all served in the military. "I'm honored to be able to do anything we can do for them."

Second Lt. Jasmine Chase, historian for the Maine National Guard, said Camp Keyes leaders have wished for a memorial to honor their fallen comrades for years. However the Guard can't conduct fundraisers, and had no way of paying for a memorial. Then some Guard members talked with members of the Augusta Emblem Club, which is affiliated with the Augusta Elks Club, about helping raise funds for the poignant Battlefield Memorial. "We knew what we wanted to do, we just didn't have the money to do it," Chase said. "I think this is going to be so powerful."

The memorial would be done in bronze, a more long-lasting version of memorials typically left on battlefields, made out of the actual boots, gun and helmet of soldiers killed at war.

The memorial at Camp Keyes would be accompanied by hand-drawn sketches of the eight late Guard members, drawn by Master Sgt. Angela Blevins, who worked from photographs of the late soldiers selected by family members. Organizers hope to raise the $5,000 for the first statue by June 1. Donations may be made to: Augusta Emblem Club #233, P.O. Box 206, Augusta, Maine, 04332- 0206.

Some fundraising started last month and they've raised about $3,300 so far, Dorr said. Ongoing fundraising efforts include a bottle drive, through which donors can leave their returnables at Capitol Container on Mount Vernon Avenue, and ask that the proceeds go to the Augusta Emblem Club's fundraiser for the memorial.

Anyone with questions may call Dorr at 626-4213 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., or Chase at 430- 2167. The sculptures are custom-made and measure about 45 inches tall and weigh 175 pounds.

As part of the Raffle Run on Sunday, August 24, donations are being accepted with all proceeds to benefit the Fallen Soldier Memorial Fund.

Complete the information below and mail in along with your check payable to Fallen Soldier Memorial Fund, c/o FCCOC, 407 Wilton Road, Suite 1, Farmington, ME 04938.
