Enjoy the excitement, the adventure, the fun of a steam car tour with the participants— with this documentary of the 2008 Green Mountains Steam Car Tour in Bennington, Vermont.

It's about cars under the power of steam and the people who care and maintain them. It also has a little taste of Bennington, Vermont, covered bridges, monuments and history. Mostly, it is about those who polish, shine and pamper. It is about preserving a part of America's past.

There is a certain amount of good natured fun between steam car operators. Most importantly though, there is a great amount of respect for one another and one another's cars. There are only so many Stanleys and other steam cars left in this world. Those who have them have taken on a special responsibility to preserve a piece of automobile history.

For people who own a Stanley or other type of steam car, a rally is an opportunity to get together and speak "steam." In the parking lot with the hood up, or on the road chuf chuf chuffing, it is a time to indulge the hobby that is a passion. It is a time to set out each morning looking for adventure, discovery, water, and hopefully not having to make a call to AAA...
